However, it was used by Singers in the 1930s for publicity purposes on a number of promotional products such as Bookmarks, Ash trays and Plates like the one overleaf, in what would appear to be a deliberate attempt to bury the fact that the actual 1904 car - see picture overleaf - was a total disaster which almost bankrupted the company.

THE GREAT BRITISH Sports Car

SINGER LE MANS

Singer Nine sports car (1932-1937) presented a serious rival to MG, yet lacked its cult following. Given Le Mans tag after entry in 1934 race.

Excellent sohc, 972cc engine gave 41bhp at 5500 rpm and found favour in other makes.

Hydraulic brakes were a modern feature, Le Mans models were well equipped and good looking cars for £225.

A series of 24 - No.6
