No. 24: SINGER GAZELLE

This new model from Singer is the first since this British company joined the Rootes Group, maker of Hillman, Humber and Sunbeam cars. Many features—notably the body—resemble the Hillman, but the Singer overhead camshaft motor is retained. This 1,497 c.c. four cylinder engine now develops 52.5 brake horsepower. A four speed gearbox is fitted. The car is 13ft 7½ in. long, 5ft 0¾ in. wide and 4ft 11½ in high.

Like all cars, Singers go best on Ampol.

Antique 1891 Singer & Co. Bicycle Catalog

Price $60 ((£42.33)

American Branch, Boston
Massachusetts

Height: 6 1/4" Width: 3 1/2"

The pamphlet is pretty beat up. Most of the pages are ripped, wrinkled or/and stuck together. However, there are some nice illustrations of their bikes still visible. This listing was ended by the seller because the item is no longer available.
